Coherence

Coherence literally means "to stick together." Coherence in writing means that all the ideas in a paragraph flow smoothly from one sentence to the next sentence. That makes the readers understand the writer's thought easily. There are two ways to make the paragraph coherent:

1. Organize the supporting sentences in a logical order
2. Use the transitional expressions to show the relationship between sentences

USING ORDER OF ORGANIZATION TO MAKE COHERENT

Time order: This is used in narration and process. Details are listed as they occur in time.

Space order: This is used in description. When you describe, you should choose one direction and maintain it (from far to near or near to far, from right to left or left to right, from the top to bottom or vice versa, from inside to outside or vice versa)

Emphatic order: This is used when your ideas are not equal in weight. You have 02 ways to present your ideas: from the most importance to the least importance or from the least importance to the most importance. However, the most important idea is often left to the end to make a greater impact to the readers.

USING TRANSITIONS TO MAKE COHERENT

Transitions are signals that help readers follow the direction of the writer's thought.

Read the paragraphs and decide the kinds of order the writer used to write.

School Uniform Should Receive an A+

School uniform should be mandatory for all students for a number of reasons. First, they make everyone equal. In this way, the "rich" kids are on the same level as the poor ones. In addition, getting ready for school can be much faster and easier. Many kids waste time choosing what to wear to school, and they are often unhappy with their final choices. The most important reason is that some studies show that school uniforms make students perform better. Many people might say that uniforms take away from personal freedom, but I believe the benefits are stronger than the drawbacks.
